

DISAPPEARANCE OF A BRIDGROOM.—A singular disappearance of a bridegroom, upon the night of marriage has recently taken place in this vicinity. Several years since an intelligent and skillful young man emigrated to this country from England and proceeded to Lawrence, Massachusetts, where he obtained employment. A number of his relatives and friends were settled near him, and in time he engaged in marriage the daughter of one of his friends, who was congratulated upon having secured as a partner a man of so many good qualities. The marriage day arrived (it was only a few days since), and the knot was duly tied in the presence of the friends. In the evening there was a social gathering and supper, at which the bridegroom took part, apparently in the best of spirits. At about midnight he went out, as all supposed to return immediately, but he never came back. The feelings of the bride may be imagined as days passed without any intelligence from the missing man. He was steady in his habits, his friends say, was apparently attached to his young wife, and no motive could be assigned for his conduct. At length, on the 12th inst., a letter was received from him dated at Boston. It was written upon a half sheet of paper, was directed to his wife, and stated that he had left her because he was unworthy of her, and that before she received the letter he should be no more. This is the last that has been heard from him. — [Boston Traveller.
